PER- AND POLYFLUOROALKY SUBSTANCES (PFAS)

Over the last few years PFAS has become a concern in drinking water sources in Michigan. In early 2018 the MDEQ now EGLE decided to test every public water supply in the state for PFAS. On July 25th 2018 samples were taken from the City of St Johns Water System and sent in for testing. On October 17th of 2018 we were notified of our results and as expected the results came back as NON DETECT thus meaning there are no issues with PFAS in the City of St Johns drinking water.
